This course is designed to meet the requirements for Providing Peer Support. Anyone who is interested in a CIT update can also attend this course.

The Responder Training Series program is designed for public safety first responders. Public safety personnel respond to crisis events on a consistent basis. Many events are traumatic in nature and may affect people in a negative way if protocols are not provided to mitigate the harmful effects of acute distress.

The Responder Training Series takes a systematic approach at providing useful tools for “First Responders” to utilize following distressful events. It provides them the tools and knowledge to assist their peers. This program includes the following topics: Stress Management, Burnout, Critical Incidents, Posttraumatic Stress Disorder, Effective Listening, Critical Incident Stress defusing/debriefing, Problem Solving, Implementation of Peer Support, Review of Peer Support Roles, Confidentiality and Limitations, General Assessment, and Referral and Follow Up.
